Expertise and Practice

Mark is experienced in corporate advisory and commercial litigation and, in particular, proceedings and issues arising in the context of consumer protection, insolvency, corporate fraud, contract, and corporations law.

Mark has experience in the South Australia, New South Wales, Queensland, Victorian and Federal court jurisdictions.

Mark has particular interest in class actions, not-for-profit advisory and international tax matters.

Notable Works

Mark's experience includes:

- Joshua v Pizza Pan Group Pty Ltd

Representing a franchisee in a consumer law dispute against sub-franchisor Pizza Pan Group Pty Ltd (Pizza Hut Australia) and its head franchisor. The case involved a number of allegations against the sub-franchisor for breaches of the franchising code of conduct and Australian consumer law. The case also involved an appeal to the NSW Court of Appeal on issues of private international law and franchising. The appeal was successful and is now a significant authority on several aspects of law, including areas affecting stay applications under the Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 (Cth) and non-exclusive jurisdiction clauses in contracts.
